The Supreme Range

Following its success at the Dubai International Boat Show in March with its Sunreef 46m motor catamaran, the 150 Sunreef Power, Sunreef Yachts will finally unveil the Sunreef Supreme 68 at the Singapore Yacht Show in April.

Shrouded in secrecy, to date the shipyard has only revealed renderings of two salon designs and the aft garage adding to the mystique. Sunreef have said its world premier in Singapore will be a game changer in terms of lifestyle-oriented boats.

The new series of sailing and power catamarans was created to respond to a growing demand for more personalised, comfortable and technically advanced units and embodies a very specific philosophy of yacht creation.

The first unit from the range, the Sunreef Supreme 68 is a 68ft sailing catamaran with a total living space equaling almost 300sqm, offering the surface of a superyacht on a unit below 24m.

AND THEN THERE WERE FIVE...

Dominated by glass, leading Dutch shipyard Feadship has launched its first of five similar 34m compact yachts.

Three years ago the owner of what is now known as Hull 692 was an existing

EXCITEMENT AHEAD OF SINGAPORE YACHT SHOW

Affectionately dubbed the Monaco of the East, Singapore is fast embracing its position as a premier yachting hub in South East Asia. Given the size of the island nation, an impressive line-up of over 100 superyachts and motor boats will be packing into ONE°15 Club in Sentosa Cove in April for the sixth edition of the highly anticipated Singapore Yacht Show.

Despite the daily downpours during the 2015 edition, business boomed and positive sentiment is being predicted for April's event. The combination of seminars and conferences, not to mention various other luxury and lifestyle events, is definitely encouraging further development in this growing market.

Each year the Singapore Yacht Show offers visitors an all-round experience with a range of events set to tantalise.

The glamorous Friday evening Red and Black Gala dinner at the W Hotel - Sentosa Cove, kicks off a weekend of festivities that includes fireworks, parades, fashion shows and live cooking demonstrations by Chef Asia Judge Audra Morris. A notable addition to this year's show is the brokerage section, where professional brokers present pre-owned motor yachts which are either less than five years old, over 40ft in length, with a minimum value of USD250,000.

At the main event is still all about the boats and this year the line-up is Sunreef Yachts, one of the world's leading designers and builders of luxury sailing and power catamarans, will showcase the Sunreef Supreme Line and its first unit Supreme 68, the world premier of the revolutionary sailing catamaran, the second-ever world premiere unveiled at a Singapore Yacht Show.

World-renowned Azimut will be showcasing its new Azimut 66 Fly, making its Asian debut alongside the Azimut Atlantis 43 and Azimut 50 Fly.

A big success story from last year's Singapore Yacht Show, Simpson Marine is back to present a range of vessels from its prestigious portfolio of brands including Sanlorenzo, Beneteau, Monte Carlo Yachts with the Monte Carlo 86 making its first appearance at the show, and Lagoon who will present the Lagoon 630 and Lagoon 450 Sport, making her Asian premiere.

Fincaniteri will join the growing list of Superyacht Builder's Association members exhibiting in Singapore. The Italian shipyard made waves in 2015 with the launch of motor yacht Ocean Victory, which was moored in Singapore during the show and has since remained in the Asia Pacific region on the owner's maiden voyage world tour.

Another exciting addition will be Australian yacht builder Silver Yachts who is still on a high following the launch of the super-sleek and eco-friendly Silver Fast in Monaco last year.

A regular on the show circuit, Princess Yachts will be presenting Princess 88MY, Princess 75MY, Princess 72MY, Princess 68, Princess 56
